Principal's Message

5th graders had an assignment to create a poem using a simple metaphor and changing it into an extended metaphor describing an action a person might do or the person themselves. The scholars worked in pairs except Johana whose partner was absent. They then presented these two poems to the class in their class poetry Slam.

GOSSIP

Sliding silently while whispering
Sharing secrets sneakily,
The snake was a faucet flowing Telling everyone

His words were smooth as silk
The snake wraps around me
Squeezing me
Till i cant breathe
Telling me secrets i did not need to know

By Joanna Salcedo

My dad

The lion awoke lazy as ever
He bravely left to hunt
The lion sneaky and strong as an ox

Pounced on his pray he Returned feeling he was the coolest feline and the alfa of the pack

he let out a roar like an earthquake he stretched and yawned and snored on my couch
